TO: Minerals File

FROM: Lynn Kunzler, Reclamation Specialist

RE: Site Inspection, Lanny Jensen, Cream Time Quarry, S/039/009, Sanpete County, Utah

Date of Inspection: September 10 and September 12, 1996
Time of Inspection: 4:00 p.m. and 12:45 p.m.
Conditions: Windy, cool and threatening rain
Participants: Lynn Kunzler, DOGM

Purpose of Inspection: To evaluate the site conditions and contact the operator

September 10, 1996

The operator was not at the site and it appears that it may have been a couple of days, or at least since the last rainstorm since anyone was at the site. There is approximately three acres of disturbance at this site. I checked the mileage from the town of Mayfield (3.7 miles), since this was one issue that needed to be resolved before the NOI could be accepted (the NOI shows the site to be about 2 miles from Mayfield). Photos were taken to document the site.

September 12, 1996

I stopped at this site again on my return to Salt Lake. I found Mr. Lanny Jensen (operator) working at the site. Mr. Jensen gave me his current (new) address which he indicated he was building a home at this location (PO Box 81, Annabella, Utah 84711; phone: 896-9165).

I delivered the Division's May 31, 1996, letter with attached May 3, 1996 inspection memo to Mr. Jensen (the letter had been returned to the Division because of a bad address). I went over what was needed to be done. Mr. Jensen indicated that the reason he didn't save the topsoil was that it had been previously impacted and disturbed and he didn't think he needed to save disturbed ground areas. Evidence of old historic disturbance was observed. He is planning on using this material (several feet deep) for reclamation.

We discussed his long term plans. He is planning to reclaim as he moves along and hopes to do reclamation by next year. He wants to keep the site under a five acre permit. He asked that when he revegetated if he had to put back what was there or if he could follow the land owners desire to put back range grasses for his cattle grazing operation. I indicated that would be acceptable to the Division provided a letter from the landowner indicating his desires is forwarded to the Division.
